

The Sunbeam

THE SCRAP BIN by DENNY GOODRICH

I have a small electric motor that does not want to start. It kind of turns when the stick is moved, but will not run unless flipped by hand. The second time I tried running it would not make speed. This is the second speed control I have tried. I removed everything from the plane and all works A-OK. I see the red motor wire looks like it has a kink, so maybe it is nearly broken, thus making the connection intermittent. That has to be it, right? I also found out that a motor I thought was bad is actually OK. Meanwhile, I disassembled it to show to people and now I cannot find the shim washer and c-clip for it. I know I put them in a safe place...

I need some motivation. I would be interested in knowing what gets you to really going on a project. Do I have so many things in process that I can't see the forest for the trees? When do you decide to give up on a project as not worth while?

Two fish swim headfirst into a concrete wall. One turns to the other and says, "Dam!"

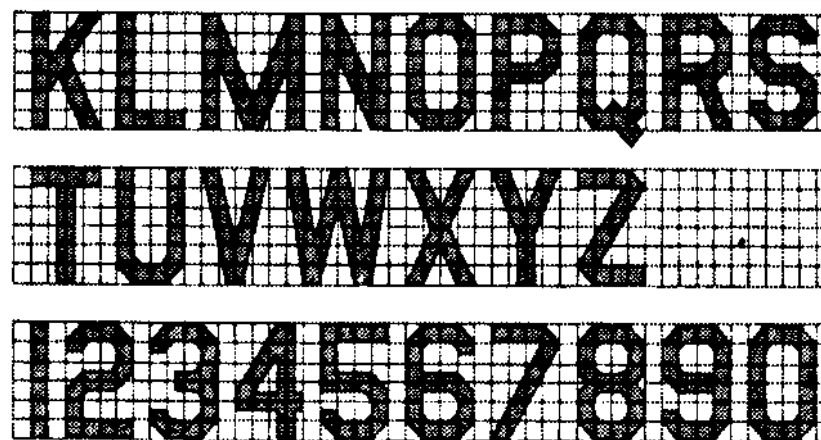

An invisible man marries an invisible woman. Their kids were nothing to look at, either.

Two cannibals are eating a clown. One says to the other, "Does this taste funny to you?"

A dyslexic man walks into a bra...

New Year's Day Penguin Fly

Several people showed up on New Year's Day. I was first and flew shortly after 12:45. It was sunny and nearly calm then, but by 1:15 or so it got cloudy and the wind picked up just a few mph, enough to make it "not nice", but still much better than many a New Year's Day
